

News from the Big Room Flock

April 22, 2022

What a fantastic way to celebrate Earth Day; with our trip to Providence Farm was beautiful. We got to see lots of babies and enjoy a fantastic treat. Mrs. Romyan was such a gracious host.

Next week we will begin regular spelling and vocabulary work again. We have two more regular lessons and a review puzzle week before we begin our end-of-the-year tests (4/grade level). I am encouraging kiddos to study a little bit each night.

Math is charging right along with gallant efforts. 6th-grade is working on rates and ratios. 7th-grade is working on factorial, permutations, and combinations. 8th-grade is tackling functions and function tables.

In grammar and writing, we are studying libraries, how they are set up, the Dewy Decimal System, and utilizing an automated library system (since, sadly, there are no more card catalogs). We were then able to practice putting things in ABC order which is never a bad skill to revisit. This also helped us understand how nonfiction and fiction books are set up and organized.

We have been studying the Second Great Awakening in America in history class. We were able to see how God used things, the revivals, and circuit riders, to bring the Word of God with them as they traveled west.

Don't forget that Tuesday is Macaroni and Cheese day-bring your crock-pot to school and plan on a delicious meal in the evening.

If you are interested in your child finetuning some of their math skills, I would love to work with them this summer. My “school work day” will be Tuesdays. Let me know so I can save a time slot for your child.
