

News from the Big Room Flock

November 5, 2021

What a crazy start to November. The kiddos were terrific while I had to be away this week. Pastor Gary is doing well and seems to be behaving for the most part. It is so wonderful to be able to leave your class and know they will be happy and learning while you are away. I also know that the substitutes in my room get a treat when they get to spend the day with my three extraordinary ladies.

We finished up math chapters in two grades and will be moving into Data collection and Central Tendencies for the 8th-grade and long division for the 6th-grade. In Bible, we finished up the story of Jacob and how God blessed him and kept His promises to Jacob. We will be moving into Moses for our next unit. In science, we continue to work on being healthy physically and mentally. Hopefully, these are skills they can utilize their entire life.

Report cards will be going home on Monday. Conferences are Friday the 12. You can sign up in the office or online.

There is also a sign-up online or in the office for snacks for the Harvest Auction. Your help is greatly appreciated.

I can't believe we have moved into our second trimester. The girls have come a long, long way already. It is incredible how fast we can proceed with only three students. I am genuinely running to keep up with them. I also love the way they have "jelled" as a group.

We will be starting book discussion in the following week, which is slightly different from our book groups for Mount Majestic. I learned about this new method from the conference and am excited to get started.

Next week Thursday will be our Veteran's Field Trip day. We will be honoring our Veterans by placing flags at their headstones in local cemeteries. We will also be coming to the house for our monthly baking project. We may have to look at No Bakes because our oven stopped working, but we will figure something out.

Dates to remember:

November 7- Time Change
